results from these studies can be quite complex, the field has matured rapidly since the initial reports by Molina et al. (1987) and Tolbert et al. (1987). Based on some of the most recent measurements, a reason-able consensus of reaction probabilities on PSC-like surfaces for Reactions (3-1) to (3-4) can be presented (Table 3-1).

When the basic processes of partitioning, radon emanation from the aquifer solids, and first-order decay are incorporated into an advective/dispersive transport model, good agreement is obtained with the results of laboratory and field experiments.
